

4 Ways to Develop a Captivating Short Essay

The short essay seems interesting or at least write my essay for the students. However, sometimes they can be tricky. Sometimes the topic is vast and the word count is so limited that it becomes difficult to include all the important information. And sometimes, while fitting all the necessary information, either the language becomes complicated or unclear. Most of us are capable of writing good quality content but it is an art to write exactly what is asked in the fewest possible words and clearest manner.

The central feature of any short essay is that it must contain all the main concepts and arguments in a concise way and limited word count. The word count of a short essay is between 200 and 500 as per the instructor's requirement. Doesn't that seem scary? Yes, it is actually. But this is what makes the short essay captivating and read-worthy.

The main components of a short essay are an introduction including a thesis statement, body paragraphs, introspection, reinforcing evidence, and conclusion.

Without further ado, let us now discuss the four easy but fruitful ways through which you will be able to develop a captivating short essay.

• Keep it concise and to the point

As we have already discussed that the best quality of an essay is to paper writing service. So, while writing all of the essays you should keep this point in mind. If you are wondering how you can keep the content concise, let us show by an example.

Example: The paragraph of the introduction became dull and boring because it contained a very large number of words that were not required or necessary.

Better version: The introductory paragraph became dull due to numerous unnecessary words.

• Don't forget the thesis statement

Even though this is a concise essay, the thesis statement is still very vital for it. Make sure you write a strong thesis statement of not more than 4 or 5 lines. Describe the purpose and the main argument of the essay in the thesis statement. Consulting a quality essay writer online can help you get through with your essay assignments. ## • Focus on Clarity

Now let us discuss the most common mistakes students usually make while composing a short essay. While emphasizing the concise of the essay, students forget about the clarity and simplicity of the sentences. They tend to write grand and complex words to make it short but end up writing sentences that do not make sense. So, write short and simple sentences that convey the message. No matter how smart you are, if you don't write clear the reader will not be able to understand your idea. To check if it is clear or not, request a peer to proofread.

• Elevator pitching your essays

If you have written even a few essays till now, you must have realized the importance of creating an outline and pay for essay. As you make the outline, you can draft which points you will include and which to remove. You can distribute the word count so that you write concisely for each argument. Another benefit of creating an outline is you can highlight your argument. If you are familiar with the concept of 'Elevator Pitch', you must know to include this technique. An elevator pitch is an exercise for the salesmen where they are asked to convince or at least interest the buyer in the time a lift hits the desired floor. Follow that approach to make the essay captivating.
