He said he intends to run a campaign that is inclusive, welcoming to all the party's supporters and that will work for all Democrats. "In my world, inclusion means opportunity for all," he wrote on Facebook. "When I was growing up, discrimination did not end in politics. We can't let it end in politics." Tynan DeGaudio Democratic challenger Tynan DeGaudio will run against incumbent Sen. Daniel Squadron in the 2014 Democratic primary, sources say. DeGaudio, who is serving as state comptroller, would be the first candidate to enter the race in months. He is not the only Democrat challenging the progressive senator. DeGaudio, a former three-term member of the Common Council, lost his reelection bid in the November 2010 primary after an opposition TV ad portrayed him as a drunk and divorced. He unsuccessfully challenged incumbent Mayor Michael Bloomberg in the 2007 Democratic mayoral primary. DeGaudio said he has been reaching out to other state senators and planning a campaign that will include a television, radio and direct mail campaign. "I'm proud of the work we did over the last four years to help the middle class and the working class," he wrote on Facebook, "and will run a campaign that is inclusive and welcoming to all the party's supporters." — Dan Morain Tynan DeGaudio (Photo: Jon Lanzavecchia) Get the latest from NBC 4 New York delivered to your inbox by signing up for newsletters.
