Torrentz is a torrent search engine, use this web site to download TV show, Movie, Software.Q: How to know if two NSDate are the same or different? I am developing an app that tracks the active users. So I have a NSMutableArray that contains users UID. This NSMutableArray has the date the user connected to my app. I would like to do the following: Make an NSMutableArray (called sleeptimes) that receives the new users. Check if the users UID and the current ones's UID in sleeptimes Array are the same. If they are the same add the sleeptime in this new array. The issue is that, I have an iPhone device that worked before, and after respring, its sleeptime changed from 2013-06-16 to 2013-06-16 21:23:01, which means the two dates are not the same. So I need to know if the sleeptimes array already contains a user or not. A: Given an object aDate, you can use the -compare: method of NSDate to determine if that date is greater than, equal to or less than the receiver. If the receiver is the receiver, then the -compare: method will return NO and if the receiver is not the receiver, the method will return YES. To determine if two dates are the same, you would use the -compare: method and pass YES as the context parameter to indicate that you're interested in comparing the dates. If you need to know if the dates differ by more than a day, you would use the NSCalendar's -isDateInToday'sRange: method to get the range of possible dates.
