An Open Letter An Open Letter To As we all know, recent events in South Africa have offered new insights into the dramatic and brutal reality of apartheid. It was the collective plea of tens of thousands of South Africans who can no longer live with the shadow of apartheid and its legacy. The world is at a crossroad. The struggle against apartheid has been a central part of the struggle for all black people in South Africa for so long that the other struggle - for freedom from poverty and hunger - is recognised as a necessary requirement. The call of the Southern African National Congress to a radical change in the South African society must be heeded. The end of apartheid will be synonymous with the end of poverty and hunger. As a result of a number of factors - among them, the presence of the United States government and the resounding success of the ANC, the election of Mandela and the release of Nelson Mandela - apartheid has been transformed in a dramatic way. In fact, the significance of the ANC presidency has been recognised in the beginning of the transformation process. In 1994, the international community even recognised the ANC as
